INCREASE SHOWN IN ADVERTISING IN '29

1,015,964,000 Lines Carried in Newspapers for 10 Months; Radio Goes Up 86 Per Cent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3—Tourist and other passengers travel and newspaper and magazine advertising during 1929, showed a material increase over the previous year, commerce department data revealed today, both items indicating the satisfactory trend of business.

Newspapers advertising was estimated to have increased about five per cent and advertising in magazines six per cent. For 10 months the cost of magazine advertising was $198,201,000 while there were 1,015,964,000 lines of advertising carried in the newspapers.

Radio, the comparatively new medium of reaching the public, showed a remarkable increase of 86 per cent, [illegible] and [illegible] of advertising $14,[illegible] was expended.

The fact that newspaper and magazine advertising showed an upward trend [illegible] that the radio [illegible] not cutting [illegible] seriously [illegible] the printed means of getting to the buyer, according to officials.

National advertising showed a gain of 10 per cent and a total of 384,758,000 lines in 10 months. The relatively larger gain in this form of advertising probably was due to the fact that chain store systems were growing more rapidly than local business, and that [illegible] products were being more generally distributed owing to the concentration of commerce and industry in larger organizations.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 — America's hosiery bill was bigger in 1929 than in the preceding year, while the production of more than [illegible] pairs of socks and stockings was four per cent greater, according to commerce department figures today.

Short skirts and the well-known tendency of women's silk hosiery to develop those very annoying "runs" kicked the stocking bill a few million dollars higher. Hosiery during the year probably cost the public about $300,000,000 at retail.

GENERAL SMUTS says the world would not be so lunatic as to allow such a conflict to begin; but suppose Russia, having successfully completed her program to spend thirty billions and pass the United States in industry, wealth and power, should decide to teach capitalism a real lesson, or suppose some Asiatic power, annoyed by race discrimination, preparing secretly the necessary airships, submarines and chemicals, should set out to rebuke western arrogance.

MAN SLAIN AND GIRL ATTACKED

Negro Charged Couple with Pistol as They Sat in Auto, Young Woman Says

FIRES THREE SHOTS

Police Believe Baltimore Slayer Same Man Who Cut Widow's Throat

BALTIMORE, Jan. 3—Reuben Heyman, 22, was shot and killed late last night and his girl companion, Mrs. Dorothy Burgess, 21, was criminally attacked by a negro who charged them with a pistol as they sat in their parked automobile in deserted Druid Hill park.

Mrs. Burgess, estranged from her husband, who she said is living in Washington, D. C., was in a serious condition at Union Memorial hospital today.

She said her assailant told her he was a World war veteran and pulled up the leg of his trousers to reveal to her a [illegible].

"My name is Lorenzo Price. I'm going to die soon anyway and I don't care about what I've done," Mrs. Burgess said he told her.

"Then he swallowed some poison tablets, got violently sick and ran into the darkness," she told police.

Police believe the murderer was the same who assaulted Mrs. Margaret Wilhelm, 60, a widow, yesterday afternoon in Dunecan wood in the northeast section. He attacked her, cut her throat, left her lying bleeding in the lonely woods.

The second crime was learned when Mrs. Burgess cried to a passing motorist.

"I've been attacked by a negro. He killed Reuben! Call for help!" she gasped and fainted.

Police found Heyman's body lying in a ditch a few yards from his parked automobile. Two bullets had been fired into his chest, one piercing his lung and causing death, physicians said.

Mrs. Burgess regained consciousness later and said Heyman had been her friend for quite some time.

HOME BOMBED

Family of Philadelphia Man Escapes; House Wrecked

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 3—A dynamite bomb or grenade wrecked the front of the home of Robert Farley, clerk in the register of wills office, here early today. No one was injured although the entire neighborhood was shaken.

The explosive evidently had been tied to the door knob and had been equipped with a fuse. It exploded about 4 a. m. A gaping hole was torn in the door and the vestibule door was almost torn from its hinges. Farley, his wife and two daughters and a sister-in-law, who were asleep at the time, were uninjured.

Police have been unable to uncover any cause for the mysterious attack.

Two Arrested in Hunt for Soldier's Slayers

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 3—A man and a girl who may know something about Irene Schroeder, blonde gunwoman, and her two companions, who disappeared following the slaying of Corp. Brady Paul near New Castle last Friday, were arrested here today and were taken to Greensburg barracks of the state police for further questioning.

State police have developed the theory that the gun woman and her companions have been in and out of Pittsburgh as late as last Tuesday. Suspicion was aroused when it was learned that a man who refused to identify himself and his woman companion, had tried to charter an airplane to take them to Cleveland or New York. Failure to identify themselves resulted in refusal of the plane.

Roumanian Unemployed Storm Hall; 3 Killed

BUCHAREST, Jan. 3—Three persons were killed and 50 were wounded, some seriously, when a mob of 2,000 unemployed stormed the city hall at Temesvar, Roumania, today, according to word reaching here.

Among the injured were 10 policemen who attempted to disperse the crowd. The emergency was so great that police fired indiscriminately on the mob, but the riot was not ended until federal troops had been mobilized and rushed to the scene.

1929 RECORDED AS BUSY YEAR IN CITY COURT

Receipts of $22,437 Exceed Expenditures by $9,745, Report Shows

1928 MARKS PASSED

Total of Cases This Year Show 368 Increase; Profit Gain Is $2,104

A substantial increase in the activities and receipts of all departments of Marion's municipal court during 1929 is shown in the annual report of the court which was officially released yesterday by Judge William R. Martin.

The court not only paid its own expenses but apparently made a net profit of $9,745.87 during the year, the report shows. This is a gain of $2,104.[illegible] over the 1928 profit of the court.

368 Increase in Cases

Total receipts of the court during 1929 amounted to $22,437.78. This amount came from the handling of 2,172 criminal and civil cases. In 1928 a total of 1,804 criminal and civil cases were handled, showing an increase of 368 in 1929.

Disbursements of 1929 show the city of Marion received $15,[illegible], paid to the state $1,[illegible], paid to the county $[illegible] and to the county law library, $[illegible].

Operating expenses of the year amounted to $[illegible], or $[illegible] less than the operating expenses of 1928. Expenses of 1929 include judge's salary, $2,236.50; salaries of clerks and assistants, $[illegible]; [illegible] and equipment, $[illegible]; stationery and printing, $1,272.[illegible]; jury and witness fees, $[illegible].

Judge's Compensation

In addition to the salary of $2,236.50 from the city, the municipal judge receives $2,000 from the county and township, making a total of $4,236.50. Of this amount $[illegible] was allowed for a [illegible] to occupy the bench on his vacation.

Wage assignment fees for the year netted the court $147.55.

Intoxication was the most used charge during the year, with 312 persons being tried on that charge. Non-support of children was next in number with 78 such cases handled. Seventy-two persons faced charges of illegal possession of intoxicating liquors, 54 were charged with disorderly conduct, 46 with petit larceny, 27 with reckless driving, and 21 with issuing checks without funds. Three persons were charged with first degree murder during the year.

William R. Martin is judge of the municipal court. John H. Powell is chief clerk, and Mrs. Madeline Gessler and Miss Mary Kelleher are deputy clerks. D. S. Belt is bailiff.

BANDIT SUSPECT IS BEATEN BY OFFICERS

Another Arrested as Police Work on Tip of Several Robberies

COLUMBUS, Jan. 3—One bandit suspect was beaten into insensibility by policemen and another was arrested here today when two officers accosted the pair in a restaurant after they had been "tipped" that the two men had allegedly staged several holdups.

Lloyd Vaden, 27, one of the suspects, was struck over the head with the butt end of a revolver after he had drawn his gun on the policeman. His companion, Arlett Marcum, 25, who is said to be a soldier in the United States army, was arrested.

It is alleged by police that the men stole a taxicab, held up the driver, robbed a man and a woman, and fired several shots at another taxicab driver in the course of one hour.

FIEND'S BOMB TAKES LIFE OF 2ND PERSON

Arrest of Rejected Suitor Expected; Others of Family Recovering

SEAT PLEASANT, Md., Jan. 3—The fiend who sent a bomb to Mrs. Naomi Hall Brady, 18, expectant mother, in the form of a Christmas box, which killed her and almost wiped out the Hall family New Year's day, claimed another victim with the death of Samuel Hall, 19 months old.

The four other members of the family of John S. Hall, grave digger, are said to be recovering, but they will be disfigured for life except for Mrs. Margaret Bromley, 86, the dead girl's grandmother. Despite her age, Mrs. Bromley was able to leave the hospital having suffered only shock.

Mrs. Nora Hall, Naomi's mother, who lost an eye and suffered abdominal injuries, was kept in ignorance of the death of her baby. Physicians are watching closely the condition of Dorothy Hall, 4, who was more seriously hurt than the others. Leslie Hall, 16, lost two fingers, but otherwise was not seriously injured.

While hospital physicians are doing their best for the injured, County Policeman Frank Prince, expects soon to arrest a middle-aged [illegible] for the hand of Naomi [illegible] secret marriage [illegible] 22, a [illegible]

Vatican City Without Communication as Bullet Pierces Cable Over St. Peter's Square

ROME, Jan. 3—Telegraphic communication between the newly created Vatican City and the rest of the world was restored today after being cut off for several hours, all because of a duel between two men over a girl.

Vatican City is connected with the Central Italy telegraph office by a thick cable suspended over St. Peter's square. The two men staged their duel directly beneath this cable and a stray bullet pierced it.

Both men emptied the entire contents of their pistols at each other, but neither was injured. The damage was repaired after several hours work.

CREW RESCUED AS TUG SINKS

FOUR HURT ON SUBWAY

Boat Goes Down After Being Hit by Municipal Ship Hearst

NEW YORK, Jan. 3—Groping through a fog that made visibility almost negative, the municipal ferryboat William Randolph Hearst rammed and sank the tug Mutual off the shore of Brooklyn today. Six members of the crew of the tug managed to get to the rail and scramble to the decks of other tugs or to get the lines.

Harbor traffic was badly crippled due to the fog. Thousands of New Jersey ferry commuters on their way to work in New York City were delayed.

First reports that two members of the tug Mutual's crew were missing were later believed to be unfounded.

A second ferry accident, in which no one was injured, came when the Rodman Wanamaker, running between Brooklyn and the Battery, went aground on a reef near Governor's Island. The tugs Dalzell Lee, Governor and Federal No. 1, pulled the ferry off without the necessity of transferring passengers. The ferry was able to resume service.

Officers of the ferry said they did not see the tug until the ferryboat was within 20 yards. Efforts to prevent the collision were ineffectual.

All ferries in harbor traffic proceeded cautiously, and many boats remained at their piers.

Four persons were hurt in a subway train crash at an outdoor station. There were several minor automobile accidents. Trains moved slowly into railroad terminals far behind schedule.

The tug Mutual was virtually cut in two in the crash and foundered in less than a minute in about 35 feet of water. The ferryboat, only slightly damaged, if at all, returned to its berth.

The ferryboat, bound from South Ferry in Manhattan to a municipal ferry slip in Brooklyn, apparently got off its course in the dense fog which shrouded the entire harbor. The tug was anchored some 50 feet off the breakwater of the Erie basin.

When the crash occurred, life lines were flung over the side of the ferryboat. Four of the men who had been on the tug were hauled over the side. Two others of the tug crew were picked up by a tug which came to the scene after distress signals had been sounded by the ferry boat's whistle.

10 KILLED AS 2 FILM PLANES FALL IN OCEAN

SEARCH FOR BODIES

Kenneth Hawks, Director and Husband of Mary Astor, Is Victim

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Jan. 3—Sorrow-stricken Hollywood today awaited the results of an ocean search for the bodies of seven of 10 men who were hurtling to their death when two motion picture planes collided in midair and plunged into the sea in a mass of flames.

Something went wrong as the two cabin planes loaded with cameras and equipment swung into position yesterday toward sundown.

Flying 3,000 feet above the ocean and about three miles off shore, their wing tips interlocked and the two big planes staggered and swung together in a confused mass, then plunged to the sea in flames.

Onlookers saw three of the passengers hurled clear of the mass. Their bodies were recovered. The other seven were carried beneath the surface by the mass of wreckage.

Divers Boats Search

Today a crew of divers and a fleet of small boats were to comb the waters in an attempt to locate the wreckage and recover the victims' bodies.

The death list:

Max Gold, assistant director.

JUST FILM STUNT, PASSENGERS THINK

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 3—To the passengers on the liner Ruth Alexander it was "just a movie stunt" that airplane crash that hurled 10 men to their death.

As the steamer plowed toward the harbor here, those on deck casually watched the three planes less than a mile away.

They saw two of them meet in an embrace of death and then flutter into the sea, leaving a trail of smoke and flame. It looked as though one or two specks tumbled from the fuselage, passengers said.

"Just a movie stunt but mighty interesting to see," passengers agreed.

Will Remodel Building to Double Floor Space of Business

PURCHASES PROPERTY

Structure Now Occupied by Clothier Bought from Strelitz Estate

Coincident with the announcement today that Jim Dugan, clothier, had purchased the building occupied by his store on North Main st., came the announcement that the building would be remodeled to provide more commodious quarters for the store.

Work of remodeling has already started in the basement of the building. It is Dugan's plan to floor the rear half of the first floor while remodeling operations are in progress in that section of the building. The store will not be closed if it can be avoided, Dugan stated.

Next week a remodeling sale will start in order to reduce the stock so it may be moved into the front portion of the first floor.

When the remodeling is completed the floor space of the store will be practically doubled. A balcony will be constructed at the rear of the first floor. The second floor will also be converted to use as a sales room.

According to Dugan a number of departments will be added to the store and others will be enlarged.

Dugan purchased the building from the Strelitz estate, of which Attorney J. Malcolm Strelitz is executor.

Estimated attorney fees—$25,000.

Estimated profit, indirectly, to Reno—$1,200,000.

Marriage during 1929 exceeded divorces, however. Many Californians come here to be married, in order to circumvent the three-day wait necessary in that state.

TWO ARRESTED AS MEMBERS OF THEFT RING

Men Jailed Here Accused of Poultry Stealing Operations in 7 Counties

CONFESSIONS SIGNED

H. K. Needles and Forest White Held Awaiting Action of Grand Jury

What is thought to have been the ring of chicken thieves that has been raiding Marion county farmers' flocks has been broken up by the arrest of two men by officers of the sheriff's office and of the city police department.

Two men are in the county jail, awaiting action by the grand jury which meets Jan. 6. They are Homer K. Needles of Marion, and Forest White of Springfield.

Both men have made written confessions to raiding a number of poultry houses in the vicinity of Prospect as well as in several other counties in central and western Ohio.

Grand Larceny Charged

Charges of grand larceny have been filed against the pair. They will be prosecuted for the theft of 60 chickens and one turkey from William A. Everett of near Prospect, on the night of December 18. The fowls are estimated to have been worth $90. Affidavits charging grand larceny were filed against both men by Everett.

Both men were arrested in Springfield by police there at the request of Deputy Fred Williams of the sheriff's office here. According to Williams the pair disposed of much of their loot in Springfield.

Former Lima Man

White is a former resident of Lima but went to Springfield recently, he told officers. Needles formerly lived in Johnstown but has been in Marion and vicinity for more than two years. After meeting White in Springfield recently he moved there.

After the pair met in Springfield they made that city headquarters for their chicken stealing operations, their confessions state. The pair operated in seven counties and sold their loot in Johnstown, Celina, Wapakoneta, Springfield and Richwood.

A charge of removing mortgaged property from the county led to the arrest of the pair according to Deputy Williams. This charge was placed against Needles by the Hoch Motor Sales Co. after he had taken a mortgaged automobile from Marion county to Springfield.

Traced by License Number

The car owned by Needles was a Flint touring. About two weeks ago it was discovered that the license number on this machine was the same as the number used in a chicken theft near Findlay about two weeks ago. The machine was traced to Springfield where Needles and White were arrested.

The pair were returned to Marion where they confessed to stealing the Everett chickens as well as poultry in a number of places.

A 22 calibre rifle, two revolvers and other tools were found in the Flint machine.

NEW TRIAL REFUSED RAICHLEY EXECUTORS

Motion Is Overruled by Judge Gast; Appeal to Higher Court Forecast

Motion for a new trial in the case in which Probate Judge Oscar Gast upheld exceptions of the Marion Masonic Temple Co. to the accounts of the executors of the estate of the late Burr Raichley, was filed in probate court yesterday afternoon.

The motion was immediately overruled by Judge Gast. The filing of the motion is considered as a preliminary and necessary step to carrying the case to the county common pleas court on error.

The executors, Clyde C. Smith and Harry J. Merchant, are expected to carry the case to the higher court soon.

$32,000 Return Ordered

In the recent ruling of Judge Gast in which the exceptions of the Temple company were upheld the executors were directed to return approximately $32,000 to the estate. This amount represents fees paid four Marion attorneys, and one Upper Sandusky attorney for legal services in settling the estate and defending the will in a contest suit and for extra compensation claimed by the executors as a result of the contest.

The suit to contest the will was brought by heirs of Raichley, the majority of whom were given nothing under the will. The case was settled by a payment of $60,000 to the heirs.

Not Responsible

Judge Gast held that the executors were not responsible for the defense of the will and therefore could not compensate attorneys for services in this connection. The legatees, of which the Temple company was one, were responsible for the defense of the will in the suit brought by the heirs, Judge Gast ruled.

[illegible] he saw the [illegible] against the bar. [illegible] for the [illegible] homes, either, [illegible] sit here, [illegible] No home! [illegible] and went up to [illegible]

[illegible] thinking of Su[illegible] when she had [illegible]

[illegible] morning with a [illegible] feeling of general [illegible] was endless. He [illegible] previous evening [illegible] wouldn't seek [illegible] means. He [illegible] for a man of [illegible]

[illegible] to a prize [illegible] later on played [illegible] of the club. The prize that seemed [illegible] to him and he [illegible] money at poker in a dull game. Had he wished for pleasures like these? He thought of those quiet evenings in the small house with Suzanne listening eagerly to every detail of the day's work. He remembered their long discussions about all the things they would do sometime: go abroad together, buy a [illegible] apartment, ambitions like these. The light beneath the parchment shades would pick out her pretty and serious face. She would sit there with a pencil to her mouth, itemizing the upkeep of these castles in Spain.

He had not realized until now how profoundly she was part of his life. He had lived in perfect happiness until he had met her. And yet, now, there was no happiness without her. Who else cared about him? She was all he had, his life.

He no longer attacked her, but instead attacked himself. How unjust he had been in this thing or how [illegible] about that. He knew almost from the moment he had seen her leave that she would go through with her plan. He knew better than Bruce that she would go on to his island off the shores of Tonga. But how long would she stay there? What was happening?

He read Bruce's brief wire over and over, when it came, trying to pierce behind its curt phrases.

Then a longing to see her did come over him. He would gladly have given up, had he not promised himself not to yield. What difference did it make whether he saw Bruce or not? After all, their lives were too widely separated now. If Bruce made her unhappy, he should have let Bruce go. But it was too late now!

He sat down and began to write to Bruce, in reality only trying to clarify his own thoughts, get them down in orderly fashion.

He tried to be just. He spoke of the way she had curtailed his simple pleasures. But after all that had been a pretty mean trick to play on her, for Bruce to pretend he was in love with her. It had been all right for her to flirt with Bruce!

"Let me hear from you," he wrote. "I want to hear everything. Has she [illegible] me? Does she miss me at all? I'd give anything to have her come back. I'm blue, and I'm not particularly pleased with myself. Were [illegible]"

When he had finished the long letter and typed a [illegible] he [illegible] of dropping a word to Kathleen. He was glad Kathleen was [illegible] and not another girl. She was unselfish and kind. He wrote a short and formal note with affection between the lines. But he did not mention Suzanne in this letter.

He sealed and stamped the envelopes. Outside his office window New York roared with traffic and its endless game of barter. Was this all that life was about? But no, this, too, was in some way bound up with human love and tenderness, with homes and children.

He looked up the letters he had written. Then he was suddenly seized by a [illegible] obsession. All his life he had been frightened by the idea of getting letters mixed, sealed in the wrong envelopes. He knew perfectly well he had made no mistake. Yet, if by any chance he had—! That long letter to Bruce was like a confession. If that should happen to be in Kathleen's envelope!

In the end, irritated by his doubt yet unable to resist it, he lifted the still sticky flaps, and examined the letters. Of course he had been right! He put the letters back again, and [illegible] them [illegible]

Unconsciously, the second time, he had actually mixed the two letters!

Although the storm of Tonga had [illegible] by nightfall, the water was still somewhat rough on the following morning.

[illegible] had found [illegible] on the way [illegible] he [illegible] When he [illegible] his shoulder [illegible]

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

FRIDAY. Tomorrow would be a holiday if there was any school. But there ain't no school. That is the [illegible] thing about not having any school: there aren't any holidays. When I woke up this morning I could feel that it wasn't so cold. Jubilee wasn't shivering and neither was I, but it was not so warm that either of us was sweating so very much. I got up and got his rope to let him down, and when I was letting him down I could feel that the air was warmer than it had been, and then I tried packing the snow that was on the window sill and it packed good. And the bunch was all in the barn by the time I had finished milking.

When I went in to strain my milk Younus and Maggie, the girl that has got her vaccination on her leg where the scar won't show, and Feeble were there, and my mother looked around at me and smiled when I came in a smile that made the air so warm I could have went without my overcoat, and she said to me why did I say I had been drinking milk out of the milkpans when I knew Feeble had been doing it, and I looked at Feeble and she made motions with her lips like she was saying, "You big liar," and I told my mother I done it because there was nothing else to do, and she said that was what made her proud of me. Then my mother gave Feeble a glass of milk that wasn't skim and told her she could have a glass of milk whenever she wanted it, and Feeble said that was grand. She said she likes milk so much that she stops every cow she meets and kisses it slap-dab on the nose. I bet she don't. I bet nobody could kiss a cow on the nose without skidding.

W[illegible] I [illegible] went to the [illegible] were a [illegible] So then we [illegible] and I stung [illegible] a [illegible] and then [illegible] so hard and so fast [illegible] covered with snow [illegible] snowball [illegible] Mickey W[illegible] objects [illegible] and we [illegible] I bet she will tell the teacher we done it on purpose.

Feeble told me she ain't going to marry me when I grow up because she ain't got any use for a liar, and I can't see that ain't the only reason she ain't going to marry me. My father told me to go to bed early so I would have all my strength when my aunt went to wash my face Sunday. He thinks he is funny. I wish she'd wash his face once.

The Story of a Wife's Triumph Over Jealousy

BY ADELE GARRISON

Roderick Tells His Side of His Quarrel with Junior

RODERICK'S query and the sullen look on his face startled me with a realization of what my vague talk of settling his quarrel with Junior might involve. The shackles of femininity seemed to settle around me and mentally I drew back from the vista which I myself had just opened. But my affirmative answer to his question was firm.

"Yes, I mean just that, Roderick," I told him. "You and Junior may fight out this quarrel outdoors, if, after thinking it over, and talking it over with me, you do not decide that you both have been very silly."

Roderick had been watching my face keenly, his own growing more sullen as I proceeded. When I had finished, he twisted himself toward the back of his chair.

"Aw! I knew there was 'if' in it somewhere," he muttered.

I accepted his challenge of moral cowardice even as I noted that he was going to be a far more difficult disciplinary problem than Junior.

"Look at me, Roderick," I commanded and he turned his eyes reluctantly toward me.

"There is no 'if' in the promise I made you, Roderick," I told him. "When you and Junior tell me that you can't settle your quarrel any other way than by a fight, I shall have your uncle take you out in the barn and let you fight it out. But—" I made my voice a bit contemptuous, "do you want me to think that you are afraid to talk the thing over first, to let me hear your side of the story? Junior is waiting now to tell me his side of the affair. But I wanted to hear yours first."

He squirmed in his chair. "Junior's a baby, a sissy," he burst out.

With a delicately careless air, I looked at his nose still bearing traces of the nosebleed which my small son's fists had given him. Then with a slight, but meaning smile I looked away again, but not before I had seen his cheeks in a race to match the color of his nose.

"He Can Hit All Right."

"Aw! I didn't mean that," he blurted out. "He can hit all right, but——"

"I knew you were too honest to tell me anything else," I said, stressing the approval in my voice. Many sessions with Junior have taught me the value of following a scratch with a bit of healing ointment. "Now, suppose you settle back in your chair and think this thing over. I'm going over to the other side of the room. When you're ready to tell me your side of this, will you call me?" I'm counting on your honesty, Roderick. I'm sure you're going to tell me the truth."

"But"—Roderick objected, eyeing me doubtfully, "suppose Junior tells you something different?"

I rose from my chair and smiled down at him, wondering if the intuition children are supposed to possess would betray to him how exceedingly perturbed I really was.

"Then one of you would be—either mistaken—or—lying, wouldn't you?" I countered coolly, and walking rapidly toward the other side of the room, I sat down by Dicky's reading lamp and took up a magazine, the pages of which I turned meticulously, but of which I saw no word.

Roderick Gives In

It seemed hours that I sat there, my ears strained to catch a sound from Roderick's room. I [illegible] avoided sending even a furtive glance toward him, for I guessed that he was watching me with something of the same apprehensive speculation which was in my mind regarding him. And when at last I heard him say, "I'm ready, Aunt Madge," there was that in his voice which told me that he was not yet ready fully to accept my good faith.

I let no hint of that knowledge appear in my face, however, as I walked back to the chair opposite him and sat down [illegible] expectantly.

"Where shall I start?" he asked.

"At the beginning," I returned promptly. "You and Junior were playing very nicely together at first. What happened to make you angry?"

"He wouldn't let me show him how to make a 'sperriment.'" There was the renewal of a grievance in his voice, and I sternly suppressed the desire to smile.

"What experiment?" I asked quietly.

"Why, I wanted to make a double-decker bus out of two of his railroad cars," he returned eagerly. "You take a chisel and take the top off one of the cars. Then you put the other one on top of it, and fasten 'em together. It looks just like a big double bus. I watched another boy make one, but Aunt Harriet wouldn't let me chisel up my own trains."

"Why wouldn't she?" I put the question almost mechanically and Roderick twisted uneasily in his chair.

"Because," he said at last, his voice flat, "she said the cars were too nice to cut up; that they cost too much, and she couldn't afford to get others."

"And yet," I said slowly, "you wanted to break up Junior's cars, when you didn't know whether we could afford to get him new ones. What do you expect me to say about that, Roderick?"

"Don't ask me why!"

$30,000 Brick Plant, Once Issue of Political Campaign, Now Worth Fortune in Oil to State

NEW LEXINGTON, Jan. 3—A dilapidated old brick plant in this county was purchased by the state of Ohio six years ago for $30,000.

At the time, it became the issue in a political campaign. Opponents to the move charged extravagance on the part of the state and said that the state would never realize profits on the brick plant and its 40 acres of ground.

The picture has changed today. The state has one of the finest brick plants in the state in operation and it will soon be turning out millions of paving bricks each year. Convict labor is used and it is known as the Roseville brick plant of the Ohio State penitentiary.

The $30,000 investment has returned many times that amount.

But that is not the whole story.

The 40 acres of state land is just across from the big gusher oil wells on the Brown leases. The state has now leased part of its property to oil companies and will receive one-sixth royalty.

This again promises to multiply the original investment of $30,000.

Just recently, however, Judge White realized that under the sentence Morgan would be eligible to parole in 10 years. Immediately he recalled Morgan for a resentence. The new sentence will set a minimum of probably 24 years.

SEARCH UNDERWORLD AFTER GANG ATTACK

26 Gangsters Taken Before Detroit Court for Investigation in Shooting

DETROIT, Jan. 3—Detroit's underworld was the scene of a ruthless manhunt today as police sought the gangster who yesterday shot Inspector Henry J. Garvin, head of the police crime and bomb squad, and 11-year-old Lois Bartlett.

Early today 26 known gangsters had been caught in the dragnet and taken to police headquarters. Twelve of these were being held in custody. The 14 others were released after being questioned.

So far as could be learned, police department heads have no theory as to the motive for the attack on Garvin other than that it was in reprisal for his unrelenting crusade against gangsters and racketeers, but as to the identity of the gunmen, police say they have no clues.

Needless Pain!

Some folks take pain for granted. They let a cold "run its course." They wait for their headaches to "wear off." If suffering from neuralgia or from neuritis, they rely on feeling better in the morning.

Meantime, they suffer unnecessary pain. Unnecessary, because there is an antidote. Bayer Aspirin always offers immediate relief from various aches and pains we once had to endure. If pain persists, consult your doctor as to its cause.

Save yourself a lot of pain and discomfort through the many uses of Bayer Aspirin. Protect yourself by buying the genuine. Bayer is safe. Always the same. All druggists.

HOOVER ENTERTAINS LONDON DELEGATES

U. S. Naval Conference Group To Leave for New York on Jan. 9

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3—On the eve of their departure for London, President Hoover this morning entertained the American delegation to the forthcoming naval armament conference at a White House breakfast.

In addition to the delegates, all of the aides and advisors were present. The invitation read "seven o'clock," an unusually early hour, but the president already had been up and out in the south grounds tossing a medicine ball before his guests arrived.

The delegation will leave for New York at 9 a. m. Jan. 9, and expects to sail on the George Washington the same afternoon, the state department announced.

The departure from Washington will be by special train. Final arrangements for transportation were completed and each member of the delegation, some 60 odd, received railroad and steamship tickets.

Because congress provided a fund of $200,000 for expenses of the delegation, its disbursement will be on the warrant of Secretary of State Stimson, and consequently Comptroller General McCarl will not have authority to question the vouchers. The per diem allowance for subsistence will probably be somewhat larger than the government usually allows for travel in the United States, and hotel bills will be paid for enbloc.

SAINTS BEAT AQUINAS IN CLOSE GAME

KELLY SHINES WHEN LOCALS SCORE FIRST WIN OVER COLUMBUS

Contest Featured by Defensive Playing; Final Count Is 8 to 7

ST. MARY'S high eagers last night celebrated the making of a new record when they chalked up their first victory in history over Columbus Aquinas, 8 to 7. The contest also kept the Black and White record for Star auditorium clear of defeats.

It was an airtight defensive game with neither team being able to get many good shots at the basket. Both Marion and Columbus shot wild during the first two periods.

Kelly was the individual star of the contest. It was his bucket shooting that made it possible for the Saints to win. He scored three field goals for a six-point total. Gorsuch scored the other two points.

Four of Aquinas' seven points were chalked up by the fleet Tonti from field goals. Kenton scored a basket while Rooney marked up a free throw.

Both teams played shutout ball in the first quarter. Players were unable to make their passes behave and turnovers were numerous. In the second frame Tonti scored his first bucket to give Aquinas the lead. The Columbus defense continued to turn back the Black and White offensive drives and at the half Aquinas was leading, 2 to 0.

Kelly found the basket in the third period, making the net swish twice. This gave the Saints a two point lead as the quarter closed after the Columbus Irish had been blanked.

Kelly and Gorsuch ran the Marion score up to eight in the final period sweeping the Columbus aggregation off its feet. Marion's big lead did not last long, however, for Tonti and Kenton each counted a field goal. Rooney's free throw ended the scoring for the period.

In their last two games on Star auditorium floor the St. Mary's quint has held its opponents to 11 points. Next week Zanesville St. Thomas, the team that shutout the locals two weeks ago, will play here.

Cage Season in Buckeye Conference Opens Jan. 11

THE basketball title race in the Buckeye conference will get under way Sat. night, Jan. 11, with all six teams meeting conference opponents. Wittenberg plays Miami at Oxford while Cincinnati journeys to Granville to battle Denison and Ohio Wesleyan heads for Athens to seek revenge for the gridiron defeat handed it by Ohio university in that same city last October.

With the start of the conference season so near at hand, the relative strength of the six teams still remains most doubtful. Cincinnati will start the season as a favorite on form, Ohio Wesleyan and Ohio university having failed as yet to show the brilliance many of their followers had hoped for. Miami, Denison, and Wittenberg are certain to be strong with the latter team giving indications of being a real troublemaker.

* * *

A SURVEY of championships won during 1929 shows how close and well balanced competition in the Buckeye conference has become. No one member has been able to win two clear-cut major sports titles during the year just closed. Title races in two of the four major sports resulted in ties.

Ohio Wesleyan and Cincinnati tied for the basketball championship. Miami tied with Cincinnati for the baseball title and won the track championship. Ohio university walked off with football honors. The only minor sports championship decided by the conference was won in cross country by Miami.

* * *

THREE players who have won all-state honors in high school are included in the group of 30 men to which the freshman basketball squad at Denison has been cut. George Louys, Stryker, guard; Andrew Hendricks, Dayton, forward; and Harold Breed, Des Moines, Iowa, forward, are the all-state scholastic stars.

* * *

WITH Alex Kish, Bucyrus, all-Buckeye guard last season, back in uniform and playing his customary stellar game, Wittenberg promises to be very much in evidence in conference basketball this year. Kish was only a sophomore last year when he won his all-Buckeye honors and promises to be one of the best guards ever developed in Ohio. It was feared that an operation would keep him off the squad and his return has greatly strengthened the Lutherans' prospects.

Among its squad of veterans, Wittenberg has another player of promise in Ed "Dopey" Kreeger, junior center. Kreeger is over six feet tall and played some excellent basketball at times last season. He received his nickname "Dopey" from his teammates at Wittenberg because of his habit of playing with his eyes about half shut. Even so, he has an uncanny eye for shooting baskets.

* * *

IN addition to their usual heavy intramural program, Ohio Wesleyan athletes will compete in five intercollegiate sports this winter. Varsity teams will compete in basketball, indoor track, fencing, gymnastics, and swimming.

* * *

SUPERIORITY of Buckeye conference football during the 1929 season received further recognition when the Associated Press announced its all-Ohio gridiron selections. Seven players chosen for the first team, six for the second team, and six for the third team were Buckeye men. The choices represented the opinions of some 100 coaches, officials, and newspapermen as gathered by Lathrop Mack, Associated Press sports editor for Ohio.

* * *

Ohio and Ohio Wesleyan each placed three men on the first all-state team and Wittenberg added another. The second team included three more from Ohio university, and one each from Ohio Wesleyan, Wittenberg and Miami. Ohio placed two more on the third eleven while Cincinnati, Wittenberg, Miami and Denison has one each.

All three of the team captaincies were awarded to Buckeye conference players, Edwards, Wittenberg, winning the first team captaincy and Singer and Brammer of Ohio being named second and third team captains, respectively.

The Associated Press first all-Ohio team included Siegenthaler, Ohio Wesleyan, and Laird, Oberlin, ends; Hutson, Heidelberg, and Hastings, Ohio, tackles; Black, Wooster, and Papritan, Ohio, guards; Edwards, Wittenberg, center; Wertz, Ohio Wesleyan, quarterback; Novotny, Ashland, and Franz, Ohio Wesleyan, halfbacks; and Young, Ohio, fullback.

HARDING WILL MEET CENTRAL AT LIMA; Y-INDUS PLAYS HERE

Compton Seeks To Break into Win Column; Mansfield Booked at Y

WHILE Harding High eagers are attempting to break their losing streak at Lima tonight, the Marion Y-Indus eagers will present the only major basketball tilt in Marion at the Y. M. C. A. meeting Mansfield.

With a light workout yesterday, Coach Compton completed a week of intensive workouts. He devoted most of his time to polishing up the defense of the Red and Black in hopes that his team will be able to stop the classy Lima Central quintet.

Few changes are expected to be made in the Harding starting lineup. The starting forwards will be named from the string of Razzo, Merkle and Bush or Smith favored for the pivot position. Klingle and Castner will start the guard berths.

The Y-Indus contest at the Y will close the home-coming program and club-room dedication of the organization. The basketball game will open with a preliminary at 7 o'clock. The main fray is booked for 8 o'clock.

ART SHIRES BANNED IN MICHIGAN CITIES

Boxing Commission To Probe Charges of Attempts To Fake Fight

DETROIT, Jan. 3—"When it rains it pours." And today "The Great Shires," who is known also as Charles Arthur Shires, Chicago White Sox ball player, and latest innovation into the ring, stands empty handed. He can't box in Michigan. He has a bad cold. He must face a hearing called by the Michigan Boxing commission for Jan. 9. And there is a possibility that he will be called before Judge K. M. Landis, commissioner of baseball, and his status as a baseball player will be investigated.

Yesterday's action taken by the Michigan Boxing commission which suspended him indefinitely, was announced by James M. Brown, chairman, who said he had definite information that Shires' representatives had asked Vandes Gildersleeve, manager of Battling Criss, to have his boxer "take a dive" in his scheduled fight a few nights ago.

"We have a statement signed by Vandes Gildersleeve, manager of Battling Criss, that he was approached by representatives of Shires and told that Criss would have to take a dive or the fight would be called off," Brown said.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3—Maxie Rosenbloom, tossed out of the quartet of light-heavyweight challengers recognized by the state athletic association when he dropped a decision to Jimmy Slattery, will endeavor to apologize for that "faux pas" at Madison Square Garden tonight when he clashes with Leo Lomski for 10 rounds.

The Harlem clown regained quite a bit of prestige by outslapping Yale Okun here recently and is of the opinion that a thorough drubbing of the one-time "Aberdeen Assassin" tonight will place him back in the picture.

The Austrian prob- [illegible] the problem of a [illegible] one of civilization. It [illegible] of country against city, [illegible] against socialism, or [illegible] against atheism. Two [illegible] private armies are [illegible]. The situation seems [illegible] yet it is quite simple [illegible] goes down to the [illegible] of the strife, for it is [illegible] consequence of the experi- [illegible] Germain, which re- [illegible] geographical and eco- [illegible] city called Austria.

[illegible] ago it was reported that a Russian scientist had succeeded in keeping alive for a considerable time a dog's head, completely severed from the body, by means of artificial blood circulation. It was stated that the head even devoured pieces of meat. Nobody can guess what goes on in the brain of such a victim of misguided science which still can think of feeding after the unimaginable tortures that had to precede the triumph of vivisection, but it may safely be presumed that it must be of a highly pathological nature.

The allied surgeons performed a similar operation in 1919, when they dismembered Central Europe and left nothing but a head and some loosely attached appendages to Austia, which, like the dog's head, has to be kept alive by artificial circulation and occasional injections of foreign capital. I greatly doubt that the world gains anything by either experiment, except an abominable example of the depth of brutality to which an idee fixe, be it scientific monomania or phrenetic hatred, is able to debase human beings.

Austria Robbed

The "peace" of Saint Germain deprived Austria of her richest industrial and agricultural districts and, in flagrant contradiction to the right of self-determination, so loudly proclaimed at every occasion by the statesmen of the allies, prevents Austria from joining the mother country, Germany, of which for more than a thousand years it had been the southeastern border state before the times of the Hapsburgs.

This little country of some six million inhabitants — though German throughout—is inhabited by two distinctly different kinds of people: the jolly, light-hearted cosmopolitan Viennese, and the sturdy taciturn and seclusive people of the Alps and their foothills. Social intercourse or a lively exchange of goods between the overdimensioned capital and the greater part of the country, which would tend to bridge the natural differences, is sadly lacking in Austria, if one excepts lower Austria, of which Vienna is the seat of government.

The supplies of the capital have to be purchased from Hungary, Germany, and Czechoslovakia, for the simple reason that the few agricultural districts are not able to feed the two million inhabitants of Vienna. Being situated at the extreme northeast corner of the country, Vienna is no market for the products of the distant Alpine states of the federation.

On the other hand the frugal and quite poor peasants have little use for the highly specialized and refined products of the Vienna factories. In fact the interests of the capital and the country are diametrically opposed. Any economic measures which benefit the one are bound to hurt the other. This is the economic background of the scene upon which the duel between individualism and collectivism is being fought.

Austria being deprived of practically all natural resources, is desperately poor, so poor that the allies had to refrain from trying to get any reparations out of that remnant of a country. In this impoverished republic the social minority—for the Austrian "Social-Democrats" are neither social nor democratic but the most radical socialists of Europe with decidedly communistic tendencies—managed to raise considerably the standard of living of the proletariat at the expense of the other classes.

Learn Too Late

Only too late it dawned upon the majority of Austrians that their constitution, a child of the revolution, seemed expressly designed to such a purpose, for the constitution offers no legal means to prevent a minority from causing a chronic parliamentary deadlock and invested the capital with overwhelming power. It had seemed quite appropriate to grant the city, which holds almost one-third of the population of Austria, the status of a federal state.

It proved a great mistake thus to exempt the city in which the greater part of the country's capital is invested and which raises 80 per cent of all taxes, from political and financial supervision.

The socialists did not fail to use, or rather abuse, their power over the main source of Austria's revenues. Preposterous imposts, mainly a confiscatory property taxation, ruined the middle classes and rendered the necessary funds to further the party program, the dictatorship of the proletariat. Out of the proceedings of these special taxes, members of the socialistic party, who pledge themselves to attend meetings regularly and to send their children only to the anti-religious party schools, were housed practically free of rent because $2 to $3 per month for a three-room dwelling is hardly to be called an equivalent payment.

Thousands of workmen and other people, who were unable to find apartments, were forced to resort to the municipal settlements and thus to join the socialistic party. Thousands of workmen were pressed into the socialistic ranks because it was impossible for any but the members of the socialistic labor union to find work in any of the municipal or state factories of Vienna.

Socialism Supreme

A socialistic republican guard was created to suppress any rebellion against the red terrorism. Socialism ruled supreme, because the mayor of red Vienna is also governor of the state of Vienna and the Austrian states enjoy almost complete independence in internal affairs. Vienna became the arsenal of the socialistic groups of the small Austrian towns.

As the socialistic propaganda failed to increase substantially the socialistic parliamentary minority, the Vienna party bosses tried to correct this deficiency by fraud. During the last elections the municipal authorities of one of the most radical districts of Vienna added 25,000 votes to their party's credit by permitting disfranchised party members to cast their ballots and by letting trustees vote for such members whom prison walls prevented from personally appearing at the voting booth. Unfortunately, the number of ballots exceeded the number of persons entitled to vote, and the supreme court had to send quite a few municipal officers to jail.

The decision of the court was not to the taste of the rulers of Vienna, and they answered by proclaiming a general strike.

In the evening of July 15, 1927, the mob burned the buildings of the supreme court. Austro-socialism showed its real face that day, when the mayor of Bruck, a small industrial town, prematurely having opened the orders from Vienna, proclaimed the soviet republic. The red glow above red Vienna was answered by many fires which sprang up on the summits of the Tyrolean and Styrian mountains, signalling the mountaineers' decision to put an end to the red terror.

The home defense corps was founded and the movement gained momentum like an avalanche. The Alpine states being without sufficient police and military forces to guard the railroads and power plants during the ensuing strikes, officially recognized the home defense corps as auxiliary police. Upper and lower Austria followed.

Thousands Volunteer

Even in Vienna, thousands of involuntary socialists joined the home defense corps, which unites in its ranks members of all the anti-socialistic parties.

Now the leaders of the corps, who are anything but diplomatists, demanded a racial revision of the constitution. The Streeruwitz cabinet, lacking the courage to undertake the task, resigned and Herr Schober, formerly chief of the Vienna police, a determined advocate of constitutional methods and now at the head of the Austrian government, is entrusted with solving the problem.

The situation is quite puzzling. Though the anti-socialistic parties are in the majority, it is most unlikely that they can raise the two-thirds majority required for a change in the constitution. Several weeks have been spent in negotiating without broaching the vital questions, the curtailment of Vienna's municipal power and the provision of increased powers for the president, particularly those of dissolving parliament and of emergency legislation.

Political feeling is running extremely high in Austria and it seems that the matter will have to be decided one way or other within a few weeks' time.

Meanwhile the two private armies are standing by and awaiting trouble, trouble which might only too easily spread beyond the borders of Austria.

London Tenor Here Next Week in School Concert

STEUART WILSON

A SPECIAL program of music, given by a smooth-voiced tenor and a brilliant young concert pianist, Tuesday afternoon at Central Junior High school auditorium, will be given as the first of three artist programs brought to Marion through the efforts of the Lecture-Recital club and co-operation of the department of music in the Marion public schools.

Last summer, while attending the International Conference of Music Supervisors at Lauzanne, Switzerland, 150 American supervisors heard Steuart Wilson, a London tenor, sing two concert programs. Arrangements were made with Mr. Wilson to come and sing his beautiful songs for the music-loving children of America.

Tour Arranged

This tour is being arranged with the School Concert Series organizers, under whose management he is appearing in America.

Appearing with Mr. Wilson is Dalies Frantz, a young American concert pianist. Mr. Frantz has won the approval of critics in New York, Boston, Chicago, Milwaukee and other cities. He is a product of American teaching, having studied in Boston, and while attending the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, was for three years under the guidance of that excellent pianist, Guy Maier, of the famous two-piano team, Maier and Pattison.

Others to Follow

In addition to the concert next Tuesday, by Wilson and Frantz, the children here will later hear a concert by the Cornelius van Vliet trio, with Cornelius van Vliet, artist cellist, Charles Lichter, violinist, and Jerome Rappaport, pianist, and the beautifully costumed opera, "Hansel and Gretel" by Humperdinck, in which the following singing characters will be heard: Hansel, the brother, Gretel, the sister, the old witch, the mother and the father.

A small admission fee will be charged and tickets will be put on sale on Monday, the opening day of school.

GET INTO ACTION

New City Officials Busy on First Actual Working Day

Mayor L. Don Jones spent a busy day in his office yesterday, the first actual working day of his administration. Scarcely a moment passed but that he was either interviewing department heads, or meeting visitors to the office.

Sylvester Larkin, city clerk, was also new to the office, and found a busy day issuing licenses, building permits, copying records and acquainting himself with the contents of a dozen pigeonholes in his desk.

While City Solicitor Carter Patton was lining up some prospective legislation to be considered by city council at its first regular meeting, his assistant, John Wiedemann, was maintaining close touch with the city police department, and getting evidence to prosecute his first case in municipal court as city prosecutor.

TOOTS AND CASPER

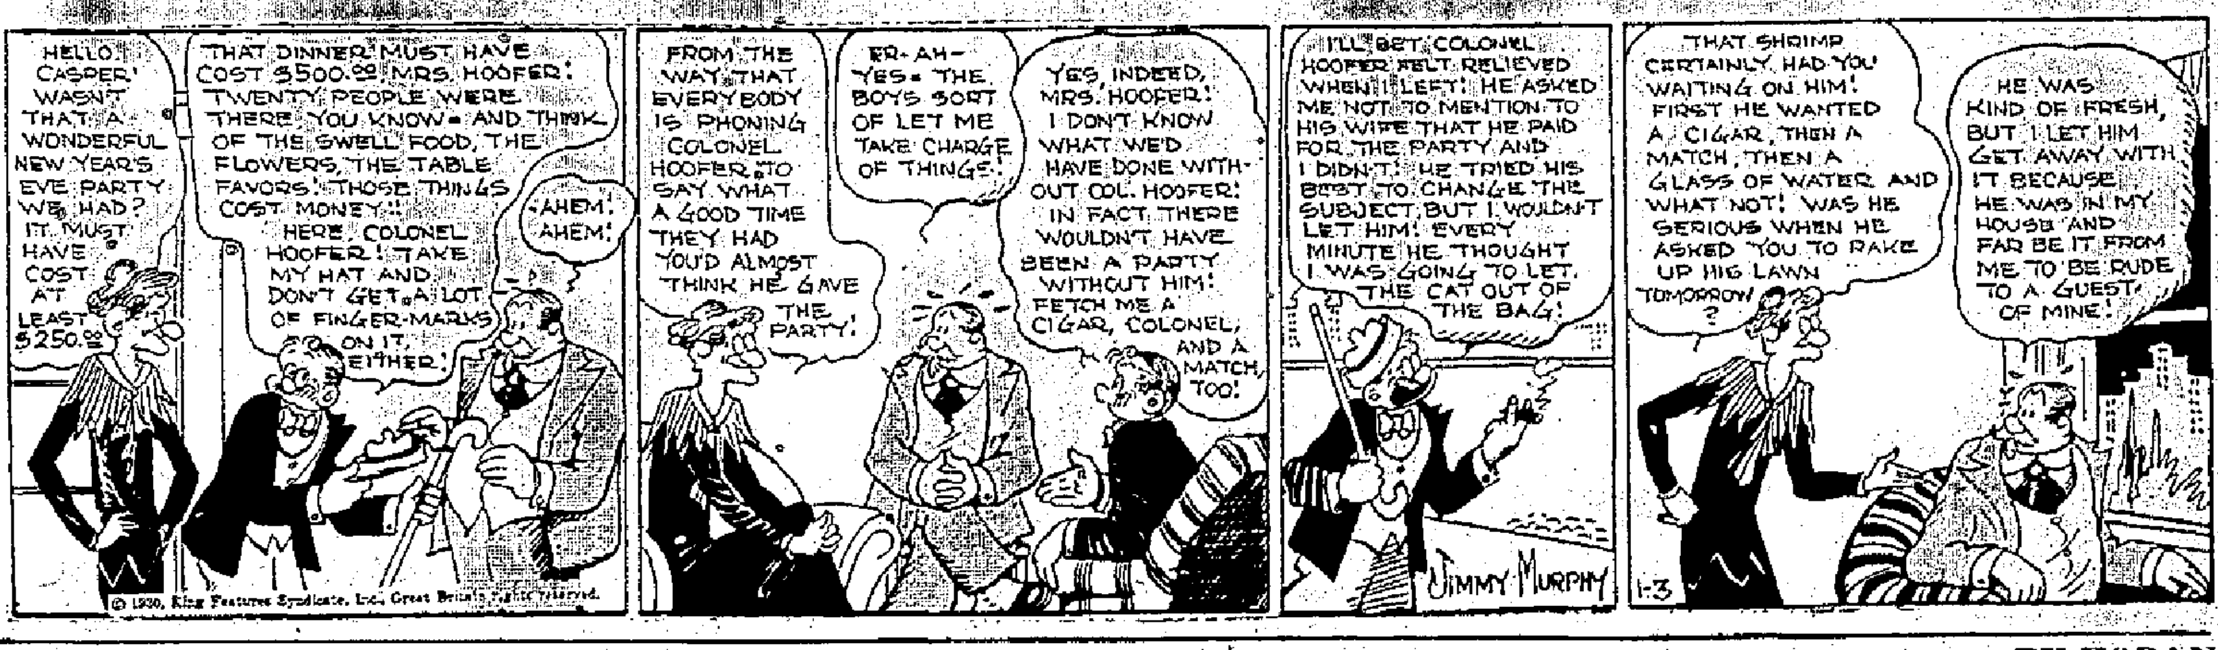
BY JIMMY MURPHY



HELLO! CASPER! WASN'T THAT A WONDERFUL NEW YEAR'S EVE PARTY WE HAD? IT MUST HAVE COST AT LEAST $250.00
THAT DINNER MUST HAVE COST $500.00 MRS. HOOFER! TWENTY PEOPLE WERE THERE YOU KNOW - AND THINK OF THE SWELL FOOD, THE FLOWERS, THE TABLE FAVORS! THOSE THINGS COST MONEY!! HERE, COLONEL HOOFER! TAKE MY HAT AND DON'T GET A LOT OF FINGER-MARKS ON IT, EITHER!
AHEM! AHEM!
FROM THE WAY THAT EVERYBODY IS PHONING COLONEL HOOFER TO SAY WHAT A GOOD TIME THEY HAD YOU'D ALMOST THINK HE GAVE THE PARTY!
ER - AH - YES - THE BOYS SORT OF LET ME TAKE CHARGE OF THINGS!
YES, INDEED, MRS. HOOFER! I DON'T KNOW WHAT WE'D HAVE DONE WITHOUT COL. HOOFER! IN FACT, THERE WOULDN'T HAVE BEEN A PARTY WITHOUT HIM! FETCH ME A CIGAR, COLONEL, AND A MATCH, TOO!
I'LL BET COLONEL HOOFER FELT RELIEVED WHEN I LEFT! HE ASKED ME NOT TO MENTION TO HIS WIFE THAT HE PAID FOR THE PARTY AND I DIDN'T! HE TRIED HIS BEST TO CHANGE THE SUBJECT, BUT I WOULDN'T LET HIM! EVERY MINUTE HE THOUGHT I WAS GOING TO LET THE CAT OUT OF THE BAG!
JIMMY MURPHY
THAT SHRIMP CERTAINLY HAD YOU WAITING ON HIM! FIRST HE WANTED A CIGAR, THEN A MATCH, THEN A GLASS OF WATER AND WHAT NOT! WAS HE SERIOUS WHEN HE ASKED YOU TO RAKE UP HIS LAWN TOMORROW?
HE WAS KIND OF FRESH, BUT I LET HIM GET AWAY WITH IT BECAUSE HE WAS IN MY HOUSE AND FAR BE IT FROM ME TO BE RUDE TO A GUEST OF MINE!

Look out—Here comes old January!

New SOHIO MOTOR OIL

Free From Harmful Wax

CROSS off November. Cross off December. But look at the chart for January. And remember — it's the sudden extremes of weather that really put motor oil to the test.

Right there's where New Sohio scores a triumph. It's at ease in any temperature. Bitter cold doesn't make it sluggish. Rising temperature doesn't thin it dangerously. Melting heat doesn't break it down.

The reason? The harmful wax has been removed from New Sohio Motor Oil by a remarkable new process which whirls it away at 50 below zero. That makes it an oilier oil—sturdier — ready to resist Ohio's severest weather changes. Yet with all its extra quality New Sohio Motor Oil costs but 30c per quart.

Expect These Results With New Sohio Motor Oil In Your Crankcase:

Easier starting—less drain on battery.
▼
Less need for slow warming up
▼
Full, smooth power-unfailing piston seal.
▼
Reduced carbon formation
▼
Less wear on moving parts

RECOVERY TO BE SLOW

Irregular Sessions Ahead of Exchange: Fox Film Bandied About

BY W. S. COUSINS
Marion Star Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 3—The rally in the stock market was held back today by persistent selling of the in[illegible] whenever they [illegible] gathering strength for [illegible] scale. Less than [illegible] shares of stock changed hands [illegible] period, which was the [illegible] dullness and lack [illegible] for stocks from any quarter [illegible] of the professionals. Some [illegible] of the dividend [illegible] the best records was [illegible] enough to make much [illegible] speculative record. [illegible] and industrial leaders [illegible] of the coming year, [illegible] that a period of re[illegible] is necessary, and it is anybody's guess how long that period will [illegible]. Until coming events cast their [illegible] more plainly, the stock market will drift and shuffle.

In the absence of definite news on the Fox Film situation that stock was [illegible] back and forth among the professionals on the floor.

At the opening the Fox Film corporation situation showed no new developments, but the stock was pushed down to a new low at 16½ by a flood of selling orders which met scant support on the floor of the stock exchange. Radio was also under selling pressure on price-cutting announcements and rumors, and sold off two points at 42.

After rallying about a point to 168½, U S Steel sold under 167. The bears in American & Foreign Power were given some rough treatment [illegible] that was pushed up to 95½, [illegible] with other stocks [illegible] outside demand was small. The [illegible] stocks were reactionary, with Sears Roebuck back to 83¼ and Montgomery Ward down two at 46¼. [illegible] 225,000 shares changed hands in the first half-hour.

Baldwin Locomotive and United [illegible] yesterday's best performers, [illegible] slightly higher prices in [illegible] trading today, and automobile [illegible] an effort to radiate the [illegible] motor-show enthusiasm. [illegible] was unchanged at 6 [illegible].

Today's Review of Yesterday's Grain

CHICAGO, Jan. 3—Buying power failed to follow an opening advance in the local wheat market yesterday, and prices reacted sharply closing substantially below Tuesday's close. Strong foreign markets were responsible for the early upturn.

Coarse grains and rye followed wheat, but corn and oats showed strong resistance to the reaction which followed the higher start. Trade continued very light in the small pits.

Closing wheat prices were near the lows, showing net losses of 2@2⅛c and a decline of more than 3c from the highs. Corn was ⅝@⅝c down, oats ⅜c lower; and rye ⅝@1⅛c off. Winnipeg wheat futures closed 2⅛@2⅜c lower, while Liverpool finished ⅝@¾d higher.

There was pronounced bullish sentiment at the opening in wheat which had carried over the holiday and was further stimulated by strength at Liverpool and Buenos Aires. Higher prices resulted, but when May reacted $1.39, selling on resting orders, some of which credited to Eastern account stopped the advance.

Buying power dwindled and sentiment turned bearish at the poor response of the market to foreign strength and early buyers sold. Buying against bids checked the decline, but the market appeared weak and put observers ascribed the decline more to lack of buying power than to concentrate selling.

Liverpool reacted some from its early strength, which was credited to better demand and scarcity of Argentine and United States offers. Rains to delay harvest and movement in Argentina were also bullish, but after an early advance Buenos Aires reacted sharply.

Into an export situation already uncertain enough to discourage bullish sentiment was injected the possibility of shipments from Russia. Messages were vague and lacking in detail, but it was said Russia has sent samples to Liverpool. In addition, heavier purchases of French wheat were reported. Domestic export demand was not up to expectations. Seaboard wires indicated sales of 600,000 to 700,000 bu. mainly Manitobas.

Assertion by a member of the farm board that there was no apparent reason for corn prices to decline from present levels and the government weekly crop report which called attention to reports of spoilage in field and crib were strengthening factors in the corn market. Commission houses were moderate buyers and locals supplied offerings. Trade continued very light.

Poor quality corn continues in the majority in fresh arrivals and depresses discounts, causing some bearishness. Demand in the spot market is well maintained for good qualities, but the poor are slow sale.

Cars of grain received: Wheat, 6; corn, 438; oats, 47; rye, 6, and barley, 17.

2 DAYTON MEN HURT WHEN CAR RUNS WILD

Tram's Brakes Fail To Hold and It Leaves Tracks, Hits Steel Pole

DAYTON, Jan. 3—James Love, 29, and John Verdin, 41, local residents, are suffering injuries today, as the result of a wild ride here last night. The street car in which they were riding left the tracks when the tram's brakes failed to hold or either slipped as it was approaching a corner, causing the car to leave the tracks, rip down a steel pole, crash through an iron fence and then come to a halt as it reached the porch of a house.

Love suffered cuts and bruises and Verdin has possible spine injuries.

OUR OBLIGATION TO OUR DEPENDENTS REQUIRES THAT WE BE THRIFTY

IF during our old age we are dependent upon our children, we perhaps will not only prevent them from having some of the comforts which they might have, but we might also prevent them from accumulating a reserve which would insure their independence. In other words, dependence may be passed on from one generation to another.

On the other hand, if we are independent, our children are enabled to accumulate more for their own independence, then we will be passing independence from one generation to another.

KLEINMAIER'S NEW STORE SOUTH MAIN

Why do they come to Kleinmaier's

The reasons mean a lot to YOU.

—from Columbus
One of our leading building supplies dealers stopped in recently to tell us:
"A salesman from Columbus who calls on us just told me he always drives to Marion and buys his clothes at Kleinmaier's! Says he always gets what he wants and at better prices, too." So that's why he comes here
—for Suits!

—from Detroit
An advertising salesman, from Detroit, America's fur center, came in to ask this:
"While in Grand Rapids," he said, "I saw a coat I liked. Can you tell me the name of the store near——?" We did, but he bought a fur coat HERE. "Best value I've seen anywhere!" He ought to know where to go —for Overcoats!

—from Chicago
One Marion mother who gets to Chicago frequently tells this:
"I went into M—— F——'s to see what they were showing in boys' clothes. The buyer stopped us to ask where we got the cute coat our boy wore. It came from Kleinmaier's. And after looking at their styles, and their prices, I decided to come back to Kleinmaier's"
—for Boys' Clothes!

—from Warren
He formerly lived in Marion. Now he is near Youngstown and Cleveland—but let him tell it:
"I've always liked the shoes I got from you so we decided to drive back over the week-end." Then he bought two pairs when he saw the present prices here
—for Shoes!

—from Mt. Vernon
A Marion railroad man changed positions and moved to Mt. Vernon. Now he writes:
"Please send me two pairs of your best Overalls and jacket to match. I can't get them here ... no others as good." If you want wear—depend on us
—for Work Clothes!

—from University
College men know style. Here's what one of them just wrote us:
"Received suit ... very well pleased ... color is fine ... a perfect fit ... much admired ... surely thank you." Many college men depend on us
—for Correct Style!

for Style! for Wear! for Value!

10 KILLED WHEN 2 FILM PLANES FALL

[illegible] Ships Lock Wing [illegible] Santa Monica [illegible] Crash

Fox Film Corp. entitled "Such Men Are Dangerous."

The story was based on the legend of the death of Alfred Loewenstein, Belgian multi-millionaire, who was lost from a transport plane over the English channel July [illegible]. Warner Baxter is starred in the film.

Blinded by Sun

Witnesses declare that one or both of the pilots had perhaps been blinded by the glare of the setting sun. Anyway the two planes [illegible] [illegible] to the right and the other [illegible] to the left [illegible] a sickening crash and [illegible] into the sea.

Turner's plane at that time was [illegible] feet away from the other two [illegible] at a lower altitude.

The bodies of Max Gold, assistant director, Conrad Wells, cameraman, and Ben Frankel, assistant camera[illegible], were [illegible] after they floated to the surface.

Howard Hawks, brother of the film director and husband of Athole Shearer, sister of Norma Shearer, owes his life to a whim that caused him to decline an invitation to ride in one of the camera planes.

A second brother, William, [illegible] married Bessie Love, film star, recently.

Mary Astor Collapses

Mary Astor, stage and screen star, was hardly able to believe today that her husband, Kenneth Hawks, director, had really been killed in the tragic airplane crash over the ocean.

It was not until Lieut. Col. Roscoe Turner, a witness and close friend of the motion picture man, had [illegible] fully assured her of the truth, but Miss Astor realized her husband was dead.

"They are telling me that Kenneth was killed," she gasped over the telephone shortly after the tragedy. "It can't be true. Please tell me it's not true."

Colonel Turner was forced to inform the actress that Hawks had died with the others.

Miss Astor then collapsed. The part she was playing in a Hollywood theater was filled by an understudy last night.

CORPS OF OFFICERS CHOSEN BY SOCIETY

Three Groups of Leaders Elected at Meeting of Presbyterian Women

Three groups of officers were elected at a meeting of the Woman's Missionary society of the First Presbyterian church yesterday at the church.

The meeting opened at 10:30 o'clock with the study class conducted by Mrs. J. B. Bray. A luncheon was served at noon by group A of the society. The lunch was followed by an executive committee meeting.

At 2 o'clock Mrs. Howard L. [illegible] opened the meeting with devotionals and prayer. Mrs. O. V. Bell also offered prayer. Mrs. S. E. Barlow had charge of the program which was based on the topic "Stewardship." Mrs. Carl Warren gave the [illegible] and [illegible], assisted by Mrs. J. E. Thomas. Rev. Mr. Olewiler gave an interesting talk on the program [illegible] followed by a vocal solo "Your Mission" by Mrs. E. G. Williams. Miss Ethel [illegible], a missionary in southeastern Kentucky, then gave the feature talk of the afternoon on the mountaineer work she is doing in that state.

The following officers were then elected: first group, Mrs. F. H. Crouse, president; Mrs. J. W. Hes[illegible], first vice president; Mrs. W. L. Warren, fourth vice president; Mrs. C. H. Davidson, secretary of literature; Mrs. S. F. Barlow, secretary of stewardship, and Mrs. Frank Annen, pianist; second group, Mrs. E. C. Carl, recording secretary; Mrs. H. L. Olewiler, second vice president; Mrs. S. L. Surface, young people's counselor; Mrs. C. C. Nash, secretary of national and overseas sewing; Mrs. Jonas Conkle, secretary of prayer circle, and Mrs. Olewiler, assistant pianist; third group, Mrs. James Cooper, corresponding secretary; Mrs. M. W. Mickley, third vice president; Mrs. J. B. Bray, secretary of missionary education; Mrs. Earl Warwick, secretary to associate members; Mrs. Lewis Uhl, secretary of group work; Mrs. O. A. Continued from Page One.

chief prohibition orator during the last campaign, is definitely on the war-path against both the enforcement and prosecuting personnel of the present regime. He has carried his case direct to the White House, but thus far President Hoover has elected to keep hands off.

The president has in his possession the preliminary report of the law enforcement commission, which Senator Jones said he was "glad to announce," did not express any opinion concerning the wisdom or unwisdom of the Eighteenth amendment. The president also has a long report from Borah, elaborating upon his charges that the department of justice is inefficient and the prohibition bureau itself "a national disgrace." It is this report that is understood to contain the ammunition which Mrs. Willebrandt, now in private practice, supplied the Idahoan.

The department of justice and the prohibition bureau are both in turmoil over the Borah charges, and the knowledge that as soon as congress gets back to provide the proper stage, they are going to come in for even more caustic criticism.

Refuses To See Mitchell

Defending his own administration, Attorney General Mitchell declared he had cleaned house to the extent of causing an even dozen district attorneys to leave the government service. And he issued a [illegible] to Borah to [illegible] because of the inefficiency of others.

To this challenge Borah made a [illegible] and somewhat contemptuous retort. He said he had no idea of [illegible] Mr. Mitchell [illegible] but he asserted that if the department did not know which district attorneys were enforcing the law and which were not then it [illegible] the incompetence of the departmental heads.

Similarly, Senator Borah declared that [illegible] including [illegible] Borah were not aware that [illegible] of [illegible] was the chief [illegible] in the [illegible] system [illegible] [illegible] and incompetence.

MRS. MARY G. NAVIN IS CLAIMED BY DEATH

Mrs. Mary G. Navin, 59, of [illegible] rd., died at 9:30 o'clock last night at her home. She had been a resident of this county for 25 years. She had been ill since March 1 and complications caused her death.

PLAN ACTIVITIES FOR LEGION SCOUT TROOP

Contest One of Features Mapped Out at Meeting; New Leader Appointed

A comprehensive program for the advancement and [illegible] of troop No. 3, Boy Scouts of America, sponsored by the Ed Maxwell Post No. 162, American Legion, was worked out at a joint meeting of the troop and the scout committee of the legion at the Legion Dugout on South [illegible] st. last night.

Coincident with the working out of this program was a change in scoutmaster of the troop. Floyd G. Browne, city disposal plant superintendent and city chemist, was introduced to the troop as its new scoutmaster by Walter C. Brown, scout executive in charge of the Harding Area.

Browne succeeds Walter Symes as scoutmaster of the troop. Symes tendered his resignation at the meeting last night but will not entirely leave the field of scout work, as he expects to be connected with Troop No. 3 as an assistant to the new scoutmaster. He has been scoutmaster of the troop for [illegible] years.

Contest Planned

In an effort to bring the troop back to its full membership and to expand the program of scout activities of the troop it is backing, the legion committee has announced a contest among the four patrols of the troop, to terminate early in May, with a dinner and special honors for the winning patrol, provided the troop has been brought up to full strength by that time.

Selection of the winning patrol will be based on the number of scouts recruited and the advancement of all scouts.

A mystery exhibition has been promised the entire troop by the legion if the contest is a success.

The new scoutmaster, Floyd G. Browne, and the legion scout committee consisting of Clarence Rowe, commander, J. W. Llewellyn, and Mayor I. Don Jones will be initiated into the ranks of scouting by an arrangement worked out at last night's meeting, proposed by retiring Scoutmaster Symes.

Will Get Full Training

All of the men, in order to better acquaint themselves with scout activities, will study scouting on a par with all scouts by beginning on their tenderfoot tests, and later the second class scout and first class scout tests. They will be tutored in scouting by the members of the troop they are backing.

The legion plans to present the troop with a new standard, which will be carried with the troop flag and the American flag in parades, which will indicate the troop is the "legionnaire troop." The boys will furnish an escort of honor to Paul V. McNutt, past national commander of the legion, who is slated to give an address here on Memorial day.

Overrules C., D. & M. Plea for Rehearing on Bus

COLUMBUS, Jan. 3.—The state utilities commission today overruled the application of the Columbus, Delaware and Marion Electric Railway Co. for a rehearing relative to the commission's order denying the company's request for authority to operate a motor freight service between Prospect and Richwood.

Only 4 Traffic Cases Listed Here This Week

Traffic violations were few during the last week, a glance at traffic court records today would indicate.

Four persons, two of them charged with failing to observe red traffic light signals, were given tickets during the week. The two who "crashed" red lights were fined $5 each, another charged with parking in a bus stop was excused, and one charged with alley parking has not yet appeared.

"Black-Hand" Threats Received by Officers

POWHATTAN, Jan. 3.—Three "black-hand" notes which threatened the lives of two men who are actively engaged in prohibition enforcement work, were being investigated by police today.

One threatened to "blow up" Deputy Sheriff Edward Carpenter, who recently led a series of liquor raids which resulted in the arrest of 20 persons. His home was seriously damaged by a dynamite explosion of unknown origin a year ago.

Two of the notes threatened D. A. Bond, state dry agent.

When everybody has a smattering of the town's history, it will fill the papers with controversial letters.

Thirteen persons met violent deaths in Ohio, Wednesday, which comes pretty close to our idea of how not to celebrate the opening of a new year.

Outlook for Big Trade Balance.

Our imports for the first nine months of 1929 established a new high mark, having amounted to $[illegible]. Such is the announcement given out in Washington by the foreign commerce department of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

"Imports of crude materials [illegible] raw silk, wool, cotton and [illegible]," the report from the chamber of commerce reads, "showed an increase of [illegible] per cent. The greatest [illegible] were registered in [illegible] and semi-finished manufactures, [illegible] per cent and twenty-one per cent respectively. [illegible] newsprint, tin, copper, leather, [illegible] vegetable oils and [illegible], included in these two classes, [illegible] substantial gains.

"Imports of manufactured foodstuffs were eight per cent larger than a year ago, due, to a great extent, to larger receipts of sugar and meats. The crude foodstuffs group showed a loss of two per cent. [illegible] cocoa, beans, nuts, tea, wheat, [illegible] accounted for most of this decline."

These percentages of increase and decrease are figured on the imports of the first nine months of 1928, in which our imports were exceptionally high. The great expenditure on our part might be taken to indicate that our balance of trade was endangered, but happily announcement came from Washington a few days since that our exports for the first nine months of 1929 showed an increase of eight per cent over the same period in 1928, amounting to $3,544,000,000, which leaves a balance of trade in our favor for the period of $524,000,000. If the increases in exports and imports for the last three months of last year are in the same proportion as this country will have no ground for complaint against 1929 in the matter of foreign commerce as it will show a balance of approximately $800,000,000 in foreign trade in our favor, which will exceed by far any favorable trade balance in our history save during the war period and the period of four years thereafter—1914 to 1922—when the average yearly balance in our favor was $2,355,739,589.

THAT BOTHERSOME QUESTION.

Guard Against Cold Infections.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

An infection in any part of the body is bad and may cause a great deal of trouble. Infection of the antrum is sometimes of long standing, and as a result of the pus germs growing in this cavity, there is slow poisoning.

The bones of the face are hollow, and as a result, there are several spaces. One of them is the hollow inside the cheek bone. This is known as the antrum.

There are also other cavities in the honeycombed bones of this region. These cavities all open into the nose and they are spoken of as the "nasal sinuses" or the "nasal accessory sinuses."

One of these sinus cavities lies in the hollow bone corresponding to the inner end of the eyebrows and at the root of the nose. This is the frontal sinus.

The sphenoidal sinuses are more deep-seated cavities which lie deeper embedded in the bones behind the nose. Between some of the nasal sinuses and the brain cavity is a layer of bone, like paper in its thinness.

Mucous membrane lines the entire nasal tract. It passes through the nasal openings into every one of the cavities. When one has a hard cold there is much inflammation and swelling of this delicate membrane in the nose. You have a running of the nose. When there is much moisture from this inflammation of the membrane of the nose germs [illegible] lodging place there. They may be carried into the interior cavities from the nose.

Now, if the antrum becomes infected with one of these [illegible] germs, and inflammation is set up there, the pus becomes dammed up in this cavity. The narrow passageway from the nose may be entirely closed by the swelling of the tissues. There is much pain and you may feel as though something was pressing hard on your back upper teeth, crowding them into the bone. It is very uncomfortable, and, what is more, it may be very serious unless it is checked. The antrum having become infected, the pus increases greatly, creating a poison, which may be carried to every part of the body by the blood stream.

When you know you have antrum trouble, and sometimes it is of long standing after an attack of influenza or a severe cold, the inflammation may be controlled somewhat by cold application or ice packs. This will help to keep pus from forming. A doctor should be consulted and his directions carefully carried out.

You see [illegible] grave trouble may develop from neglected colds or from influenza. Great care should be taken after a cold starts, to see that it is kept under control. One may have that dread malady [illegible] trouble, following a severe cold [illegible] up that passageway which leads [illegible] to the ear, the Eustachian tube. No one wants to have that serious and painful [illegible].

Build up your bodily resistance to disease so that you will not have repeated colds. And the [illegible] take care of a cold when you have one, so that the infection and inflammation will not [illegible] the other nasal cavities. When [illegible] chronic sinus trouble or antrum [illegible] business.

Editorial Opinion.

"SUSPICIOUS!"

The action of the Woodrow Wilson foundation in offering its annual prize for the promotion of international peace and understanding to the League of Nations contains a suggestion for Senator Caraway's chamber ardente. The League of Nations is an organization fundamentally un-American in genius and method, which has sought to embarrass this country in the latter's dealings with war rumors in the western hemisphere and has used all its ingenuity to get us into its net, Article XVI and all—and here is an American organization subsidizing it to the extent of 25,000 good American dollars!

"Suspicious!" we can hear Senator Hawes ejaculating.

Although he differed from Woodrow Wilson, politically, Secretary Kellogg has put over, since the foundation's last award, an international instrument that constructively promises more for peace and understanding among the nations than anything the league and its "flapdoodlers"—to borrow an apt term from Mr. Lloyd George—are fairly to be credited with. Why this American achievement should be overlooked in favor of an alien institution jealous of the United States, would seem to be as worthy of investigation as what a New York banker called the Senate.

"Suspicious!" We should say so, when it is openly hinted that the award is "an effort on the part of the disciples of the late president to forward the move to have the United States enter the World court of the League of Nations and eventually the league itself."—Detroit Free Press.

FRESH AIR DURING SLEEP.

As the promoter of fresh air sleeping, the Indiana Medical association has put under way an interesting movement in that state. These men of medicine want residents of the state to learn the value of fresh air during the hours of sleep. They want open windows, if one insists on sleeping in the house. They point out the value of sleeping porches for use in summer, and make a point of insisting they may well be used in the winter, if one has a warm place in which to dress and undress.

The men in charge of the promotion of that idea are not faddists, but count it as important every hour of sleep in a place where there is fresh air currents. One need not be in the open wind to get that fine inspiration. The association has issued a bulletin and given it circulation over the state explaining how to get the advantages of fresh air in sleep. If one has a bald or otherwise sensitive head, cover it with a convenient cap, and be certain to have an abundance of cover on the bed and ample protection from cold underneath the sleeper. It is just as important to protect the body from below as above.

The purpose of the bulletin is to interest and encourage people in sleeping where there is an abundance of fresh air, be it indoors or on the sleeping porch. They insist the habit will add to the life of the individual and to health. The strong point made is that individuals are foolish if they sleep in rooms that do not have fresh, moving air in abundance.—Ohio State Journal.

A BATTLE FOR 1930.

State and county elections in Ohio this year will have to share interest, it seems certain, with an initiative proposal to amend the constitution to provide for equitable apportionment of membership in the lower house of the legislature.

First petitions for a vote on this question have been filed by Senator George Bender, of Cleveland. That enough signatures will be filed to assure an election seems certain.

At present about half the population of the state is in the eight large city-counties. But the so-called rural counties control the lower house through the constitutional provision that each county, regardless of population, shall have at least one representative.

The proposal is to repeal this and have the representatives apportioned by district according to population, with not more than 120 representatives and thirty senators.

The field is set for a rare battle. The cities have logic and fairness on their side, but the rural counties will not surrender an advantage that have long enjoyed without a struggle.—Columbus Citizen.

Studying the Stars.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

The ingenuity of mathematicians and astronomers in devising methods for studying and analyzing the heavenly bodies is astounding. The weights of stars, hundreds of millions of miles distant from the earth, are determined with satisfactory accuracy. Also the velocity of stars, although very remote, may be determined in the apparently impossible case when the star is moving in the line of sight.

Consider, for example, the case of two stars which revolve around each other. These are known as binary stars, because they come in pairs or companions. Each moves in an ellipse about the other which lies at one focus of the ellipse. This is due to Newton's law of gravitation which requires one body to move about the other in an ellipse—a sort of flattened circle or a oval curve.

The problem would be comparatively simple if one of the stars was immensely heavier than the other. In that case one star would "stand still," while the lighter companion would describe an elliptical orbit about it. In nature, however, the two companions are usually comparable in weight. Here neither star stands still, each describes an ellipse. By mathematical computation from a study of these two ellipses, the weights of the two companions can be determined.

An ingenious and comparatively simple method has been devised for determining the velocity of stars, under the most difficult possible circumstances. When a star's distance is known, we can tell its speed across the sky. But suppose the star is moving directly in the line of sight—namely approaching us or receding from us. How shall we determine its velocity in that case?

At this point the astronomer's great modern aid, the spectroscope, steps in and solves the problem.

The spectroscope automatically analyzes the light from a star into its various constituent colors. The strip of light it throws on the screen is called a "spectrum." The shades are arranged as in the rainbow in the order of the primary colors—red, orange, yellow, green, blue, indigo, violet. The physicists have learned that these colors of light result from waves of different lengths. The colors in the spectrum occur in the order of their wave-lengths, from red at one end to violet at the other. Red light is produced by the longest waves and violet light by the shortest.

It happens, fortunately, that when the light from a star is analyzed it is found that the entire pattern of lines, shown in the spectrum, is shifted as a whole in one direction or the other. If the shift is toward the red end of the spectrum, the light emitted by the star is reaching us in a redder state than that in which it normally ought to be. Hence we infer that every wave of light is longer than normal, since red light has the longest wave length. Consequently if the entire spectrum shifts bodily toward the red end, then we know that the star is receding from us. Likewise, if the spectral pattern is shifted towards the violet end, we know that the star must be approaching us.

From formulas derived by the physicists, it is not difficult to determine the star's actual speed along the line of sight. For example, if each line or band in a spectrum is found to represent a wave-length a hundredth of one per cent longer than that usually associated with it, then the star's speed of recession is a hundredth of one per cent of the velocity of light. Since the velocity of light is about 186,000 miles per second, the star's speed of recession in the above case is 18.6 miles per second—which is the speed the earth moves around the sun.—Copyright, 1930, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Business attracts more Princeton graduates than any other line, new figures reveal. The pulpit drops from third place to sixth. The legal profession is second.

Why do fewer young men today want to become preachers than was the case with their fathers and grandfathers? Has the church changed, has Christianity changed, have young men changed, have teachers or teaching changed? What is the answer?

Population has increased and life has grown more crowded, complex, intense. There is a greater need today for what the church is supposed to offer than there was thirty years ago. Why is there apparently a decreasing number of men who are set upon making religion and the affairs of the church a life work?

More than a million school children, assembled in hundreds of New York public schools, have "accepted" the Kellogg peace treaties. Pupils pledge themselves to do all in their power to further the significance of the treaties which propose to keep the peace of the world.

That is the way, and perhaps the only way, to bring about international peace and maintain it. Put the idea of peace and its importance into the consciousness of children. Teach the glories of peace instead of the so-called glories of war.

Early Publications by Morrow & Co.

EARLY January publications announced by William Morrow & Co. include "To the Valiant," by Norah C. James, "The Man With the Squeaky Voice," by R. A. J. Walling, author of "Murder at the Keyhole," and "The Open Road in England," by John Prioleau. In "To the Valiant," Miss James turns from the depicting of city of Bohemian London depicted in "Sleeveless Errand" to the rugged idealism of a family of small means living in London. The story is primarily one of brotherly love, and what happens when a beautiful woman comes between two devoted brothers.

Theatrical Color in Strike Novel

MUCH of the color and fascination of the story of Actors' Equity against the Broadway managers in 1919, which is told in "The Revolt of the Actors," by Alfred Harding, is due to the personalities involved. Not only were most of the well known actors and actresses involved, but chorus after chorus walked out on revue and musical comedies on Broadway. It was this which created the phrase "the prettiest strike in history."

Panorama in Autobiography

"AN Autobiography of America," edited by Mark Van Doren, is a fascinating volume. Mr. Van Doren has assembled from their own writings the stories of 80 men and women, who from Captain John Smith to Taylor Gordon, the Negro singer whose autobiography was published this fall, have helped make and watched the making of American social and political history. There is a panoramic unity about the narrative as it flows from Jamestown to Jazztown that is impressive as well as alluring.

YOUNG LIVE LONGER, OLD DYING FASTER

That's Report Made by Health Commissioner of New York City

NEW YORK, Jan. 3—The young are living longer and the old are dying faster in New York City.

However, that little fellow called a germ took a beating in 1929 for there were 800 fewer deaths in the city than in 1928, according to the annual report of Commissioner of Health Shirley W. Wynne, today submitted to Mayor James J. Walker.

The deaths recorded in 1929 in New York City on an estimate population of six and one-third million signify a general death rate of 12.77 per 1,000 population which compares favorably with 75,000 deaths and a death rate of 12.98 in 1928.

There were more lives saved among children and a marked decrease in deaths from typhoid, measles, diphtheria, whooping cough, infantile paralysis, pneumonia and tuberculosis, with not a single death occurring from small pox throughout the year.

But a darker side was pictured by the health commissioner relating to the increasing death rates of older people.

"Despite the steady search for effective remedies for some of the important causes of death in the older age groups, science has thus far furnished us with no cures for such prevalent diseases as cancer, bright's disease, chronic heart disease and diseases of the arteries," said Dr. Wynne. "These diseases as a rule attack persons over 45 years of age, among whom these diseases appear to be more prevalent than formerly."
